4.1

Monday.com can be considered a secure platform, they have documented their security policy here: <https://monday.com/trustcenter>.

4.2

Board permissions will be restrictive in accordance with the need-to-know principle.

5. Certification

5.1

Each certification will have its own row in the Certification projects board, identifiable by project number.

5.2

Each certification will also have a unique folder containing two boards:

- Project checklists and documents
- Evaluations

5.3

EMCI Register will update the project details board and information in the projects folder as the certification process advances.

5.4

All non-technical file documents are stored in the Monday.com. Draft, approved and signed versions will be stored in separate columns where applicable for the saved document.

5.5

EMCI Register will enable an automatic mailing workflow so that it is notified when items are delayed or require work.

5.6

EMCI Register will split each certification process into three distinct phases:

- Initial phase
- Certification phase
- Finalization phase

5.7

A certificate cannot be issued unless all tasks and processes are correctly checked of in Monday.com.
